

Library Expansion for House of Hope

Caroline Snell was a Girl Scout for 10 years as a member of Troop 837 in Service Unit 679. Caroline is now a Girl Scout alumna as a freshman attending Kansas State University.

Caroline's Gold Award project solved a lack of space issue for House of Hope, an organization supporting at risk female teens. House of Hope ensures that girls staying with them are able to continue their education. They had a space to store text books, but the location had become so packed that they needed some help to solve the space issue.

Caroline spent several hours assessing the space and building a brand new bookcase to hold the books. This innovative approach allowed for the books to be neatly placed, easily found and allowed House of Hope to solicit for more donations. Caroline's bookshelf allows for the project to continue as more space was allotted, she put together a plan on how to remove old books to make way for new and worked with the staff to keep the library maintained for years to come.
