The Little Cabin That Could

Gillian Sapp has been a Girl Scout for 12 years as a member of Troop 494 in Service Unit 816. She is currently a senior at Princeton R-V High School.

Gillian's Gold Award project addressed the need for more space and safer sleeping quarters for local Girl Scouts. In her community, girls have been using a cabin at the campsite that was slowly running out of room to house girls at campouts. Due to this, she decided to fix up an older cabin that was in need of repair to function properly. By raising funds and recruiting volunteers to make some much-needed updates, Gillian was able to provide Girl Scouts and the surrounding community an improved place to meet and host activities.

Gillian worked with Girl Scouts and local volunteers to raise funds and make changes that would improve the cabin. She set a deadline of early October so that girls could use the cabin at their fall campout. The cabin needed to have the flooring repaired, new paint, insulation and heating/cooling systems installed. She set a plan to have the cabin maintained by younger troops in the community. Thanks to her well-planned project and communication, Gillian was able to achieve her goals so girls and other area youth can enjoy the cabin for years to come.

Because of Girl Scouts... I have learned more than I could ever imagine.
